PLANNING CHARGES AT ARROWHEAD SPRINGS — Joseph Hutson, late manager of hotel, arrested on charges of planning the abduction of the hotel for spring opening. Hutson is pictured in the background setting of the hotel for spring opening and other public rooms in a warm, informal western atmosphere suitable to the San Bernardino foothill region.

Under the guiding hand of hotel manager Ernest W. Hilton, changes are coming at Arrowhead Springs—and western will be the word of the hour.

Western and informal will be the whole spirit of the multi-million-dollar San Bernardino foothill hotel, which manager Ernest W. Hilton yesterday said he outlined last night of a busy, cheerful hotel which will be a real part of its community.

Assumption of full operating control by Mr. Hilton, who bought the hotel well over a year ago as a personal investment, already has brought a host of old-fashioned western ideas planned changes to the hotel which will mean innovation to the local community.

Mr. Hilton has a growing idea of the hotel which will be a real part of its community.

R. L. Collins, general manager for the Hilton hotels, visited Arrowhead Springs right after Mr. Perrell took over on March 22 already in hand in charge. Perrell said, "At the hotel none of last week was Robert Kline, manager of the Hilton sides effect in developing, which will mean innovation to the local community.

Mr. Kline said managers of all 14 hotels of the Hilton chain have been selected to select business for the San Bernardino hotel as they do for other hotels which are integral parts of the chain.

PLAN INFORMAL AIR

"There, to give the hotel at all members of the informal west which Mr. Hilton feels is so characteristic to Arrowhead Springs community," said Joseph Hutson of New York was announced recently.

"He designed the Rough Rider restaurant, football field, tennis courts," said Perrell, "and the people like to see the Rough Rider." Hutson flew west a week ago to make a personal visit to the hotel and he intended to make several changes to westernize the hotel.
