That Grass Hasn't a Spring Breeze Alone, driving his mother's car in San Bernardino recently. Leonard Cowart, 31, of 209 E. 10th St. admitted he felt his wife's prickle, something was instinctively pressing the back of his seat. Cowart found and saw the head of a snake. He stopped the car and tried to drag the snake out, but his six-foot long wife made the task difficult. Finally with a knife he spayed, the snake and killed it. Now it was Cowart's mother's turn to be shocked. Examination of the snake trunk disclosed the snake's male. Evidence indicated the snake had been brought by the mother's brother. Leonard Cowart had been accused of poisoning her many months ago. The reptile was a non-poisonous bull snake.

SOUTHLAND RESORT ROAD PROBLEMS GAIN ATTENTION

Home Enter. The Dated of 1850 Alto Dr. reported to city police that someone entered his home and took a German made pistol, a wrist watch and jewel case, items were estimated at $55.

Frederick said the latest parking problems in the area are caused by the fact that more off-street parking was needed. Highway patrol officers also reported extensive parking problems on double parking and traffic jams.
